ARE STUDENT BEHAVIORS MAKING IT IMPOSSIBLE TO TEACH?

Are you exhausted and questioning
why you ever wanted to become a school
librarian?

In this book,
you'll learn...

- ★ How many rules should I have?
- ★ What can I do with the class that's out of control?
- ★ How do I handle bathroom breaks?
- ★ Which picture books can help me teach respect?
- ★ How can a wireless doorbell help?

Voice amplifier
If you have a quiet voice or a large library space, use a voice amplifier instead of yelling. Many librarians have used the WinBridge WB001 Portable Voice Amplifier.

Wireless Doorbell
Create attention signals with a wireless doorbell. If you search "wireless doorbell for classroom teachers" on Amazon, you should find one. You'll plug in the receiver where you want the sound to be heard, and you'll hold the transmitter. The hand sanitizer holders from Bath & Body Works are great for hanging the receiver on your lanyard, so you always have it with you.

Laser pointer
The small laser pointers that are marketed for pets and cats are inexpensive but so helpful for pointing to a book or section to help one student without leaving another student who also needs help.

Wireless Scanner
You may have a situation where you need to be close to your students at all times to maintain behavior control, but your circulation desk is isolated across the room. The wireless

What do school librarians say about their purchase?

Love this resource! Lots of great ideas to make the library run smoothly. Ideas are easy to implement and very thoughtfully planned. Includes different ideas for K-5 that are age respectful.

What do school librarians say about their purchase?

I'm so excited to use this book! I will especially use it before the next school year but there are some things I will use now. If you're struggling with behavior in your library classes, you want this book!
